

Are you voting for animals?

With a federal election looming, now is the best time to get commitments for animal welfare.

We have submitted platform proposals to the five main federal political parties with representation in the House of Commons.

Will you help? You have power and influence. Election candidates will be knocking on your door to learn more about what you care about in hopes of earning your vote.

Here's what to say when candidates visit or call:

- What will you do to advance protection for animals?
- Did you know that World Animal Protection has submitted platform proposals to your party with practical ways to address the wildlife trade and industrial animal agriculture?
- Do you care about these issues? If so, will you support their proposals?

Send candidates to VoteForAnimals.ca
to learn more

